

Dellair Youssef (Syria) - Filmmaker

Dellair Youssef is a director and writer born in Damascus, Syria, from which he fled in 2011. He has directed several films, including The Princes of the Bees, Exile, Banyas: The Beginnings, and Clothesline, which have been screened at multiple international film festivals. Youssef is also the author of Tales of this Time (2014), which shares his life, travels, and reflections on the Syrian revolution. His articles and essays are regularly featured in Arabic blogs and newspapers, as well as in German newspapers and magazines. Youssef studied Ecology at Damascus University and film studies in Syria and the Netherlands. Alongside his professional work, he has volunteered with NGOs in Syria and Lebanon since 2007. He is now based in Berlin, Germany.

<https://www.dellair-youssef.com>

Call to action:

“Tell your kids why there are refugees in the world and how we can help them. If you have no kids, you probably know some from neighbors, friends, brothers, or sisters.” – Dellair